

Science on tap

Quench your interest

7:00 Thursday, January 19, 2012
Humani-T Gelato & Espresso Bar
5755 Young Street, Halifax

Not Well Enough Alone: Mental Illness and Isolation

Effective treatment of mental illness should include social dimensions of care. Yet the experience of being diagnosed with and treated for mental illness in Canada is often isolating. This Café Scientifique will highlight how important it is that we as patients, communities, health practitioners, researchers and policy makers create and implement strategies for preventing social isolation among individuals with mental illness, and promote supportive and innovative practices of social connection.

Susan Bryson

Professor, Pediatrics &
Psychology
Dalhousie University

Lisa Guenther

Assistant Professor,
Philosophy,
Vanderbilt University

Andrew Starzomski

Psychologist, East Coast
Forensic Hospital

Moderator:

Françoise Baylis

Canada Research Chair in Bioethics & Philosophy
Dalhousie University

